THE ELIMINATE PROJECT UPDATE

Today, mothers in Chad no longer fear losing newborns to tetanus. Thanks to the work of Kiwanis and UNICEF, Chad has become the 26th country to eliminate maternal and neonatal tetanus (MNT) since the start of The Eliminate Project!

The World Health Organization (WHO) presented the official certificate to Chad's minister of health earlier this month in recognition of the country's efforts. The elimination of MNT is the result of Chad's improvements in recent years regarding routine immunization.

Most mothers and newborns dying of tetanus live in areas where women are poor, have little access to health care and have little information about safe delivery practices. There were other obstacles to overcome in Chad. The African nation has a large displaced population due to conflict prompted by Boko Haram. Many children have been separated from their families, subjected to exploitation, abuse and recruitment by armed groups. Despite this, the country has been able to achieve this milestone.

With the support of Kiwanis International, along with partners such as LDS Charities and BD, UNICEF has increased access to lifesaving immunizations for some of the world's most vulnerable mothers and babies. Our partnership has enabled UNICEF to vaccinate millions of women of reproductive age against tetanus.

"We've really made a huge impact," said Stan Soderstrom, executive director of Kiwanis International. "When we started, I said that when we can get down to counting it on our fingers and thumbs, well, we'll feel good about that. We're getting close."

PROGRESS TOWARD ELIMINATION

- Chad has eliminated MNT!
- The South West Zone of Nigeria has scheduled a validation survey for this spring.
- Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) passed its pre-validation assessment in December and is planning a validation survey for July 2019.
- Mali's country team is in discussion with WHO regarding a validation assessment for Northern Mali.
